Dedication . . .

Because of Miss Alexander's untiring efforts, her genuine interest in us, and her expert guidance in charting our course throughout our four years, we have achieved a sense of responsibility and a spirit of cooperation. With this feeling in our hearts, we face the world with a willingness to serve and a brighter outlook for the future. Thus we dedicate this yearbook to Miss Frances Alexander, advisor of the class of '49.

In Recognition of

The journalism students could never meet their deadlines and learn the "in's and out's" of good reporting and writing if it weren't for Mrs. J. Loreena Webb, the Clarion and Clarionette sponsor. She helped us through our many trials and tribulations with a smile. She was really swell and was truly an inspiration to us young journalists. Here's wishing Mrs. Webb the best of luck throughout the years.

In Memory of Miss Bernalillo Williams . . .

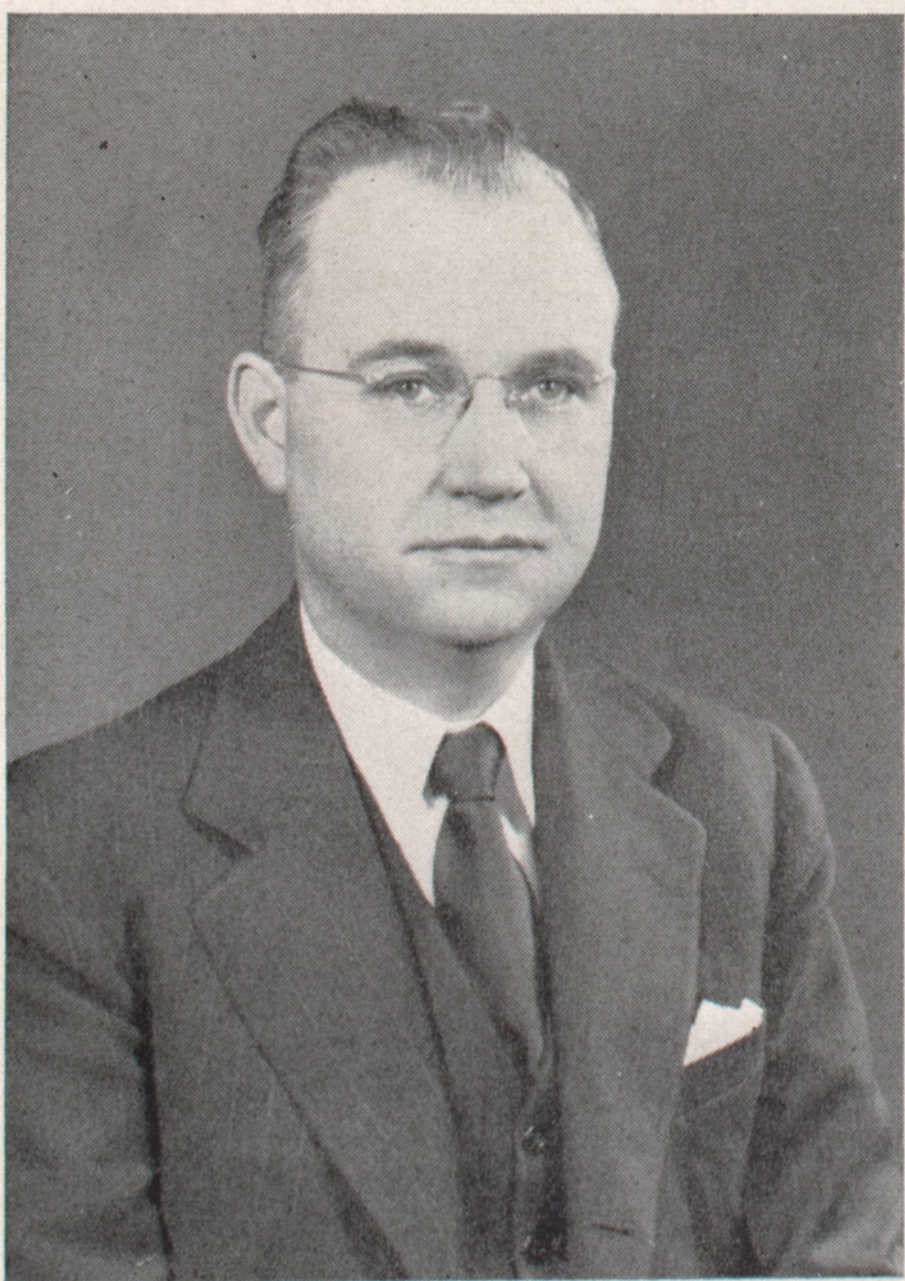

We pause once more in honor of the memory of Miss Bernalillo Williams, sponsor of the junior class and junior English instructor, who died February, 1949.

We remember Miss Williams—her kindness, her untiring efforts in our behalf—with gratitude and affection. Her death has been, indeed, a great loss and a great sorrow to U. High.

Looking Ahead

Seniors . . .

After what seems to be a thousand years, the iron doors of the Green and Gold prison finally are swinging shut. Just fooling, of course, but doesn't it seem just a little relieving to know that there are no more U. S. History exams to cram for? But then again, just think how funny it's going to be not seeing the same faces and surroundings anymore?

We certainly have gone through a lot of pleasing experiences the past four years. Back in the days of short hemlines, namely, our freshman year, we entered as innocent, green freshies at the mercy of the great big, bad seniors. We entered as eighty-five strong and are somewhat depleted as we stand at seventy-one now. In our first year many members of our class established themselves as outstanding additions to the school. Two cute gals with exploding vitality made a hit as cheerleaders, Mernie Hougham and Lois Reed.

Little did we think while watching Ted Jordan pump in baskets during the preliminary Fresh-Soph games that he would some day become the varsity captain his senior year and second high point man his junior year. During this year many small but tough freshies were beginning to pick up basic experiences in Fresh-Soph football which were to aid them in making our string of three consecutive Corn Belt Football titles. Some of these future All-Americans were Dick Blair, Paul Brush, Carol (Red) Mowers, and Chuck Wilburn.

It was also in this year that a fellow named Don Turner always seemed to get to mix the chemicals in his General Science class. We picked as our president that year a very capable fellow, Dick Maxey, better known as "Speedy." Since then he has joined the armed forces. Loren Thomson was vice-president; Patty Young was secretary; and Dick Blair, the treasurer. During this year we sponsored a neat Christmas party for the school. Our sponsors, Miss Alexander, and Dr. Young, certainly helped us through our first year.

As sophomores, we were feeling a lot more relaxed knowing there were no seniors ready to hop us at any time. This year we once again stuck our noses into school activities by putting on a bang-up "Backwards" all-school party where everyone had a swell time. Soon after that we again made our presence felt by ushering at the junior play.

Also this year the sports field had our representation which helped toward an undefeated football season, the first since 1918, and a wonderful basketball season with an 18-7 record. Our officers for this second year in high school were Harlan Peithman, president; Dick Holmes, vice-president; Ginny Buchholz, secretary-treasurer; and Mernie Hougham, parliamentarian. According to the signatures in our yearbooks, we can see that it was the year that "them new fangled ball point pens (which half of the time don't write) came into popularity." All in all we had a busy but great time as sophomores.

Now we thought we were really something as upperclassmen. Then came the letdown. We found out we had to sell candy, pop, gum, and all the trimmings to raise money for the Junior-Senior Prom in the spring, plan an interesting play for the public, choose class rings, and still have time for games, all-school parties, movies, and oh, yes, also studies (how d'it they get in here?). Work, work, work! Those were sure good peppermint sticks, weren't they? Before I forget, our capable president was that handsome blond, Wally Brandt, backed up by Marilyn Hoyt as vice-president; Frances Walker, secretary; and old moneybags, herself, Lois Reed, treasurer.

Our junior class play was "The Great Big Doorstep" which was presented in a professional air with a swell cast that knew their acting P's and Q's. Mrs. Grace Van den Huerk ably directed us. The stage committees shouldn't be forgotten either. Oh! Those midnight shifts putting up scenery. Then our class rings came. We strutted around flashing them so that everyone would know that we were upperclassmen. But nothing seemed to give anymore satisfaction than to dance to the sweet strains of "Star Dust" at the Prom after gorging ourselves with turkey at the banquet. It certainly was worth the effort we spent raising funds and painting decorations. (We would still like to know who stepped in the paint bucket the night before the Prom while we were putting the finishing touches on our beautiful decorations.)

After a grand and glorious summer, we were at last seniors, but did it seem so great to at last be so close to leaving this swell old school and all the memorable happenings? We'll never forget the thrill we felt in seeing Paul Brush make the intercity football team and kind of disappointed that there weren't enough places for other worthy players such as Dick Blair and John East, two great tackles; Chuck Wilburn, a fleet back; and Red Mowers, to us, the best end defensively and offensively in the county (we hope that Brick Young sees this).

Then came our play, "Odds On Tomorrow." The lessons we learned as juniors benefitted us and the play went over without a hitch. The publishers were down from Chicago to see the play and that gave us a little extra "something" to put it over like professionals. Everyone agreed it was great, including Helen and Lee. We'll never forget that Prom the juniors gave us, will we? It seemed it went too quickly as we all realized it would be the last high school prom we would attend. The Wesleyan Memorial Center was an ideal spot to have this annual event. The juniors deserve a great deal of credit for this great farewell dinner-dance.

It was this year that we chose our last group of officers with our junior vice-president, Marilyn Hoyt, moving up to the office of president. Red Mowers, a very versatile fellow, was elected vice-president; Barbara Buchholz, secretary; and Don Turner, treasurer.

Our senior picnic was another highlight of this last, grand, glorious year. We sojourned to Starved Rock State Park and spent a wonderful day in the wonderful out-of-doors. By the way, I'll bet you'll never have any trouble finding Lincoln's Tomb after the trip the Senior Class took to Springfield on the 11th of May. We visited many spots of interest to all of us who had or were taking U. S. History.

Thinking back over the year, we all know the school will miss Jordan's baskets that meant victory instead of defeat—also the play of the inseparable duo, Zinzer and Stiegelmeier.

Then came the last and probably the most looked-forward-to and yet most-dreaded event of the four years. Graduation! The melodious strains of Pomp and Circumstance. Have you got your cap on straight? Try and smile! Here we go. Wipe that tear away, pal, we'll be back someday. So long, U. High, and thanks for four years of companionship, education, and memories, the kind we'll never forget!

Freshmen . . .

Peter the Pioneer knew his trip through University High wouldn't be complete without a visit to all of the class meetings and parties. He decided to start at the bottom and work up, so he attended the first meeting of the Freshman class and helped them get organized.

The freshmen didn't have their class meeting until December because they needed time to get acquainted with University High and with each other. So many things around University High were new to the freshmen (like going to different buildings to classes, the honor roll, lockers, and grades) that they really needed those three months to "catch on."

Then too, they needed to know each other better before they elected class officers. The freshmen came from all over Bloomington-Normal and from other places too, so they needed the time to make new friendships. As the freshmen were pretty green, they did need Peter's help, even though they did have a very capable class sponsor, Mr. T. H. Almy. The first thing the freshmen did was to elect officers. There were lots of nominations but when the votes were counted, Jim Neff was president; Jim Howard, vice-president; Shirley McVicar, secretary; and Sandra Anderson, treasurer.

The class launched their first project by putting on a closed class party. Committees were appointed, and because the party was given in March, St. Patrick and the Irish became the theme. On the night of the Party when the freshmen arrived at the Cook Hall gym, they found it completely transformed with green and gold shamrocks and crepe paper. A floor-show abounding with talent (and showing promise of great things to come) was the main attraction. It included the Andrews Sisters, alias Jeanne Phillips, Shirley McVicar, and Jeanne Smith who danced and sang; J. R. Fenton and Bucky Gooding who tumbled on a trampoline; Malaguena played on the piano by Esther Unzicker; Jim Howard and Jim Agner who played a trumpet duet; and Ronnie Ayers and Johnnie Bowman who put on a skit entitled "Presenting a Problem." Bud Barner was master of ceremonies. This was followed by dancing and the selling of refreshments—cokes, doughnuts, and candy bars. Afterwards even Peter the Pioneer had to admit that this first party put on by the freshman class was very good.

The freshmen have other plans too. Mr. Almy hinted that they might have a picnic sometime before the school year is over. With such an active beginning we are expecting great things from this class in the future.

P.S. I am willing to bet anything that our little friend Peter the Pioneer will be around for the freshman picnic, too. So when the committee plans the picnic, they will have to have food enough for ninety-seven people instead of ninety-six.

Peter moved up a class and visited the Sophomores. As he joined their ranks at a class meeting, they were deep in details for the all-school party they were to sponsor. This party, he found out, was to have a spring, "April Showers" theme to go along with the spring-feverish atmosphere of April.

The floor show gave the mighty Sophs a chance to show their talents. This included dancing by Bill Truitt and several skits by dramatically (?) inclined Sophs. A guest feature was a dance by Bob Hartman, an I.S.N.U. student. The entertainment was planned by Helen Holliday and her committee. The gym was decorated in umbrellas by Mary Ann Hans and her committee. The other committee, to which all Sophs belonged, was the clean-up committee.

The Sophomore class told Peter of some of the swell honors its members had won. Steve McCormick and Helen Holliday placed 1st and 2nd respectively, in a District Latin Contest in Clinton. This enabled them to go to the sectional contest also. Dorothy Galvin won 2nd place in the District Speech Contest with her poetry reading and went on to the sectional where she placed 4th. In addition to these honors, each six weeks there was a long list of Sophs on the Honor Roll.

Besides this, many Sophomore boys maintained places in various sports teams, both Varsity and Fresh-Soph. Three sophomores were cheerleaders—Marilyn Nelson, Mary Anne Hans, and Bill Truitt. Almost all of the Sophs turned out for the games to cheer the teams on to victory. And could they yell.

The class of '51 welcomed several new members to its ranks this year. Peter saw some of them after the meeting he attended. Those he met were Emma Lou Gardner, Lila Mae Shepherd, Richard Gaddy, Lee Hibbens, Margie Hughes, Gloria Thomas, and Phyllis Bova. Peter thought that these newcomers certainly added much to the school and to the class.

Peter found that officers of the Class of '51 were Janet Kinder, president; Pat Orr, vice-president; Jessica Means, secretary; and Joan Smith, treasurer. Mr. Moore was sponsor of the class.

Peter noticed as he left the Sophomore class that most of the silliness which is a synonym for sophomores was quickly wearing off. He predicted a successful Junior year.

Juniors . . .

Peter the Pioneer caught himself in the whirl of activities and committee meetings and general confusion that come with being a member of the junior class.

This is the big year. You are now an upper-classman and to prove it you have your class rings. The day that the class rings arrived, there was so much loaning and borrowing of money and confusion that Peter could hardly think.

The biggest job of the year for the junior is putting on the spring prom for the seniors. While snow flurries are still flying the juniors start thinking of the future and have their first meetings to organize the prom plans. They started building their funds for the prom at the very beginning of the year. They sold cokes and candy at all the games and parties; candy, donuts, and milk at noon-time; and even made pennants to sell to everyone in the school.

Of course, in the midst of all this fuss, this busy class also had to put on a play. Peter and all of us will agree they did a delightful job in presenting "The Imaginary Invalid."

Those leading this class are Bruce Johnston, president; Oren Schaab, vice-president; Barbara Bebout, secretary; and Steffi Goldmann, treasurer. Miss Hoyman took on the duties of the sponsor after the death of Miss Williams, who did so much for the junior class.

Every one of the juniors was on at least one committee for the prom. These committees all had hardworking chairmen.

Martha Ten Eyck and Donne Rae Swan served as co-chairmen of the invitation committee. Reservation and seating was taken care of by Rosemary Roed-er and Walter Shultz. Betsy Gottschalk and George Fearheiley had charge of program printing, and the program committee itself consisted of Alice Stoik and Dave Gipson. The wonderful meal could be attributed to the menu committee whose able members were Bob Baldwin and Ann Phillips. The decoration committee was represented by Pat Johnson and Bob Scott. In the receiving line and grand march committee, we found Eddie Tick and Bill Babbs.

The Prom was held at the memorial center on Illinois Wesleyan's campus. The dinner was given there too and the seniors and faculty were guests. The theme of this year's prom was the "STORK CLUB." The decorations were carried out to comply with the theme, with an awning over the entrance way. A doorman was present to usher the people in and sophomore girls posed as check girls. The dinner was given in the same room and the speakers table headed the room. Lemon vines and dolls dressed formally decorated the tables. The programs were decorated with the traditional "STORK CLUB" awning and a doorman admitting a couple into its interior. During the dance the orchestra took the place of the speakers table and couples danced to the dreamy music of Freddie Stevens and his Orchestra.

We join Peter in taking our hats off to this active class who have worked together and made so many wonderful contributions to U. High, like so many classes before them.

The Good old days

Student Council . . .

Peter the Pioneer visited the Student Council one Wednesday afternoon at 3:00 p.m. in T-105 at the invitation of the officers, Duane Dossett, president; Mary Anne Hans, secretary; and Bill Jennings, treasurer.

Peter found that this is the student governing body for the school, assisted by Mr. Dalluge, their faculty sponsor. Student representatives are chosen from the history and English classes. However, this does not mean that any student is not welcome to air his views and opinions, at any time, before the Council.

The Student Council supervises all-school parties, sponsors Homecoming, Freshman day, and Class night.

New officers for the Student Council are nominated by petitions carrying the signatures of 25 students. Each nominee has a "campaign manager" who not only circulates his petition but conducts his campaign with balloons, matches, stickers, tags, and speeches. Although there is a lot of horseplay and fun during these campaigns, students have the opportunity to see how real political campaigns are conducted. Old Council members check the petitions as they come in, count the votes, and announce the results of the election in the Pantagraph and at a special party.

Homecoming is a really big event at the opening of the school year. The Council conducts a campaign for the election of Homecoming King and Queen in the same manner as for their own officers. Much planning is necessary for the decorations for the Homecoming Dance, especially for the King and Queen's throne. Every member of the Student Council serves on one of the committees for this event, so that everyone has an opportunity to participate.

This year the Student Council was instrumental in getting a Trophy case for U. High. After much consultation, it was decided to have the Woodworking class make the case. They did a very attractive job. The Council further contributed to this project by polishing the trophies for 45 minutes one Saturday morning. The Trophy case is really a wonderful contribution to the school.

Assembly Committee . . .

Sneaking into N-5 one day, Peter the Pioneer managed to get the inside information on the work that goes on behind the scenes to plan the assemblies at U. High. The assembly committee asks the various extra-curricular activity groups of the school, such as Latin Club, to present programs. The committee also engages outside talent for special programs with money appropriated by the apportionment board. The work of the assembly committee really begins when all the answers from these extra-curricular groups come in. They have to sort and select the right type of assemblies and arrange them in a pleasing order. Variety is the spice of life, you know!

Two especially outstanding assemblies this year were the United Nations assembly put on by the World History classes and the National Honor Society's Typical Congressional Session. The U. N. Assembly featured members of the World History classes as important delegates from foreign countries to the U. N. Dave Gipson presided as Evatt while Bruce Johnston took Secretary-General Lie's position. In the Honor Society's assembly the student's were shown the way a typical session of Congress is carried on plus the humorous side of our representative form of government. All in all, they were both swell assemblies.

Miss Leppert is the sponsor of the group—Lee Miller, president; Dick Doud, vice-president; and Mary Ann Hans, secretary. Two representatives from each class are selected for this committee to give a good cross section of the student body.

Apportionment board . . .

Peter the Pioneer, a rather curious fellow, began to wonder where the money came from and how it was divided when given to the various school organizations. He decided the best way to find out would be to attend one of the Apportionment Board meetings.

First of all, Peter found out that the Apportionment Board is made up of the four class vice presidents. Red Mowers represents the senior class, while Oren Schaab is the junior class member, and Pat Orr and Jim Howard are the sophomore and freshman class vice presidents respectively. Four faculty members assist the students on this board.

In these first few minutes he had already learned who the members were and how they were chosen. Now he was anxious to learn about their duties.

The job of the Apportionment Board is to allot a definite amount of money to each school organization and class to help it meet its yearly expenses. This all sounds easy enough but as he continued to listen he found out it was not such an easy task.

They must be sure to take each individual class and organization into consideration and find out just what its functions are and therefore arrive at some conclusion as to how much money they need to carry on these various functions.

This board meets once a semester to study and discuss all these problems. Though this may not seem like very often, you can realize how much time and work must be spent in the two meetings each year. Since each class and school organization receives their apportionment each semester it seems fitting that the Apportionment Board would then meet once a semester.

Peter found out that besides the usual amount of money going to the various groups there is also a fund set aside for any extra expenses such as new records and ping-pong equipment used for the noon hour program. It also would seem necessary for them to have a small extra amount.

Clarion . .

Peter turned out to be a helpful little Pioneer when he showed up at a Clarion meeting. He proved to have quite a flare for writing as he finished the last minute write-ups.

The purpose of the Clarion is to give a summary of the year's events including classes, sports, parties, dances, clubs, and the faculty. This is done by means of articles and pictures. Peter wants to tell you students that the staff works all year planning the make-up for the book, choosing the theme, selecting the cover and color schemes, preparing and collecting the write-ups, and taking the many pictures long before you see the finished product in May.

The staff works long and hard every Monday in N-205, with the help and guidance of Mrs. Webb, to get the yearbooks out on time. Many times Peter has seen staff members working past time and on other days than Monday; but always getting something done.

The staff of editors this year consisted of: Margery Foster, editor-in-chief; Lee Miller, assistant editor; Joan Tate, literary editor; Donna Rae Swan, business editor; Janet Kinder, make-up editor; Ann Phillips and Betsy Gottschalk, co-art editors; Bob Bleavins and Harley Brayfield, co-sports editors; Louis Nordine, photographer and Gorden Schroeder, his assistant; and Alice Mills, typing editor. The staff members were made up of students from all classes.

Every spring after the yearbook comes out and their worries are all over, the staff has the election of next year's editors and an annual picnic, open to both old members and those who want to join next year.

Peter our Pioneer found himself in a whirlpool of clicking typewriters and murmuring voices on his visit to N-205. Here he saw the Clarionette in its first stage of publication.

Under the supervision of Mrs. Webb, the school newspaper is published by and for the students.

The staff is composed of the editor-in-chief, news editor, sports editor, feature editor, copy desk man, chief copy reader, photographer, reporters, copy readers and cartoonist. They put out the paper as a part of their regular training in the journalism class.

Due to the cost of supplies and printing, the Clarionette could be published only every three weeks. To keep the students informed of the news and happening around school between issues of the Clarionette, the EXTRA was created during the second semester. The EXTRA was a two-page mimeographed paper and was to have been issued every week that the Clarionette did not come out.

The annual journalism assembly was presented in February in the form of a skit and a panel. The skit was to inform the student body how the Clarionette staff worked to put out each issue of the paper. The skit stressed the point that a good reporter must be curious and alert to get the news. It also pointed out how easy it is to make mistakes.

The first semester staff included Harley Brayfield, Editor-in-Chief; Kay Teter, Editorial Writer; Jo Ann Allan, News Editor; Lois Reed and Bob Bleavins, News Reporters; Connie Cornick, Feature Editor; John East and Bill Babbs, Feature Reporters; Dick Dunnuck, Sports Editor; Bob Scott, Sports Reporter; Pat Ealy, Business Manager.

Rostrum . . .

Our friend, Pioneer Peter, was a welcome sight at the Wednesday afternoon Rostrum debate. The fellows are always looking for other boys who would make good debaters.

Small but mighty is Rostrum. Mr. Almy, their able sponsor, works with the members in studying debating procedures and then actually using them in debates among the members.

On the evening of February 18, Peter passed by the library door on his way to catch his bus. He could hear something going on inside. On entering he found it to be the semi-annual Thalian-Rostrum debate. He became so interested that he completely forgot his bus. The question for that night was "Resolved: That the Community of Bloomington-Normal should censor comic books and magazines." The members of Thalian upholding the affirmative were Lois Reed and Pat Orr. Rostrum members of the negative side were Duane Dossett and George Fearheiley.

These debaters certainly drew a big crowd, including press reporters from the Clarionette.

Dorothy Galvin, then the president of Thalian, acted as chairman for the debate and introduced the speakers. After the firey debate, the judges cast a two to one vote in favor of the affirmative. Those judging were Miss Kraft, a teacher from Bloomington High School; Dr. Holmes, a Professor at ISNU; and Mr. Dunn. Thalian took home the McCormick Cup for the third straight year. Peter said he wasn't sure just whom he would have voted for, it was so good.

At the Thalian all-school party, March 18, Peter just about laughed himself sick. Rostrum members Duane and George opened the party with a take off on a typical Thalian meeting. The boys, dressed in hats, dresses, hose, pumps, and the like, looked very amusing. Duane acted as president and George as the able secretary. However, it seems that all of Thalian's members had dates and no one came to the meeting except the president and the secretary.

Peter thought that Rostrum was a good organization. He wished he could join.

Peter the Pioneer had been so helpful to the staffs of the Clarionette and Clarion that the members of Quill and Scroll decided to make him an honorary member.

A student must be at least a junior and have a standing in the upper third of his class to be recommended by Dr. Houston and Mrs. Webb for membership in Quill and Scroll. This organization is an International Honor Society for High School Journalists. The purpose is to improve the journalistic standards of all high school publications. Every prospective member must have had a certain amount of writing published and excel in some phase of writing. Every member is entitled to wear the gold pin and receive the Quill and Scroll magazine.

Twelve new members were initiated into the Society by the two older members, Joan Tate and Elsa Roehm. Those initiated at the candle-light service were Bob Bleavins, Jo Ann Allan, Lois Reed, Dick Dunnuck, Harley Brayfield, Connie Cornick, Bob Scott, Marge Foster, Donna Rae Swan, Ann Phillips, Betsy Gottschalk, and Alice Mills. Members of the English department and Dr. Houston were guests of the Society at the home of Mrs. Loreena Webb for the service, held May 10.

Thalian . .

Madame President, worthy opponents, and ladies—Peter the Pioneer was a bit flustered the Monday night he found himself in the middle of a debate by the girls' club.

Every week a debate or discussion is held on a current question. Miss Margaret Parret, the sponsor, offers suggestions at each meeting to improve debating skills. New officers are elected every twelve weeks.

The officers for the first twelve weeks were Lois Reed, president; Joan Tate, vice-president; Helen Holliday, treasurer; Dorothy Galvin, secretary; and Lou Ann Unzicker, sergeant-at-arms. For the second twelve weeks they were Dorothy Galvin, president; Helen Holliday, vice-president; Shirley McVicar, secretary; Janet Kinder, treasurer; and Ellen Mathis, sergeant-at-arms. The last officers for the year are Helen Holliday, president; Lou Ann Unzicker, vice-president; Mary Ellen Lee, secretary; Jeanne Phillips, treasurer; and Helen Jefferson, sergeant-at-arms.

Rostrum in the annual Rostrum-Thalian debate. Thalian was awarded the McCormick cup which is presented each year to the club winning the debate.

Thalian held an all-school party March 18, 1948. The entertainment consisted of an all-girl football team which was supposed to represent the Thalian-Rostrum debate. There was a mock meeting and debate held which was unrehearsed. George Fearheiley and Duane Dossett (two Rostrum members) gave a little skit imitating the Thalian Girls.

Shirley McVicar, Jean Smith, and Jeanne Phillips represented the Andrews sisters. Jeanne Phillips acted as mistress of ceremonies. Chairman of the committees were Pat Orr, clean up; Jean Rice, publicity; Marilyn McVicar, entertainment; and Jean Phillips, decoration.

Peter found the girls deeply engrossed in plans for their annual Thalian banquet.

Dramatics Club . . .

Our friend, Peter the Pioneer, was feeling very dramatic one day so he decided to visit the Dramatics Club meeting because he heard that they were getting ready to do something new, by presenting Three One-Act plays open to the public. Mrs. Grace Van DenHeurk, the club sponsor, directed the plays with the help of three student teachers. The tryouts were open to the whole school. With Peter's able help behind scenes, the plays were ready to be presented January 27.

The first play was "The Nine Lives of Emily," starring Donna Rae Swan who was engaged to a rich boy, Dick Doud. While vacationing in Florida she fell in love with a life guard, LeRoy Brush. Later the rich man, Dick, falls in love with Emily's sister, Alma Canerdy.

The second story was "Special Guest." "Special Guest," by Donald Elser, is a drama in one act. Rosemary Roeder and LeRoy Brush portrayed poor farmers who lost their son, played by Bob Scott, when he was shot in a holdup. LeRoy has almost forgotten the incident but Rosemary is still very bitter against the detective, played by George Fearheiley. In a plan for revenge, she invites the detective, Mr. Norton (who was the one who killed her son), out to the farm for dinner. He does not know she is the mother of the man he killed, but believes the affair to be just another case. He brings his fiancée, Elaine Madison, (Joan Smith) with him, who was very indifferent to the whole idea. While Mr. Norton tries to find out what business Mrs. Andrews has with him, she secretly poisons his tea. Elaine, suspecting something, persuades Robert to leave and they do.

The third play was "If Men Played Cards as Women Do." This is a take-off on the card parties held by women. While playing poker they discuss things such as clothes, make-up and of course, gossip. The players were Bruce Johnston, Ted Smith, Ward Sinclair and Dick Doud.

Peter the Pioneer, had found it hard to keep adjectives and adverbs and all the other eight parts of speech in mind, or rather he thought he had, until he found himself in the middle of a Latin Club meeting. He wasn't quite so confused after it was explained by Patty Orr, the Consul (President); along with Esther Unzicker, Alter Consul (Vice President); Charles Koehler, Quaester (Treasurer); Helen Holliday, Scribe (Secretary); and Helen Jefferson, Gubernator (Program Chairman).

He discovered that the purpose of Latin Club is to learn something more about the history, life, and language of the early Romans and of their contribution to modern civilization.

Peter found that the meetings were almost entirely in the hands of the members, with a first year class presenting the program at one meeting and a Caesar Class at the next. No one was quite sure what the program would be until he saw it and they were always different.

When Peter asked if he might join Latin Club he was told that anyone who was now taking Latin, had studied Latin, or was merely interested, would be welcomed as a member. Peter decided he would definitely qualify, because he had become very interested in Latin since he had been visiting the club.

After observing, Peter had decided that Miss Connell, Miss Childs, and the student teachers were the sponsors, and later this guess was confirmed by a member whom he asked.

Peter had grown so interested in the Latin Club that he decided to stay for the whole meeting.

After the general business was attended to, the Consul turned the meeting over to the Gubernator who, in turn, announced the program. It consisted of an original play by Connie Cornick (which was very excellent, by the way), a quiz game on Roman life, and, last but not least, refreshments. Peter learned that refreshments were quite typical of a Latin Club meeting and decided, then and there, to become an active member (active enough to get refreshments, anyway).

Library Club . . .

Peter the Pioneer was fascinated by the many packed book shelves in the U. High Library. He became so interested that he attended a meeting of the Library Club to see just how this big room was kept in perfect order.

Peter learned from the members that their qualifications are to be able to shelve 100 books correctly, slip 50 books correctly and be able to read the shelves. Besides the regular meetings every other Monday, each member works behind the desk one hour a week. They decorate the bulletin boards and show cases and above all become acquainted with many of the books.

The officers of the Library Club are: Mary Huffington, president; Marcia Minch, vice-president; Glenna Howard, secretary; and Dorothy Galvin, treasurer. They are assisted by their sponsor, Mrs. Winifred Schlosser, the high school librarian.

At Christmas time all the library decorations, including the tinsel-trimmed tree and the other decorations made the library especially festive.

In March the group met in the Home Economics rooms, and Miss Louise Kraft, a student teacher in library science, gave some very interesting book reviews in the form of "Teaser Reviews." This type of review gave just enough interest to the book to make each student want to read the book. After the reviews, the group had refreshments.

At one time during the year the club took a trip to Milner Library, to go through it and see how the students and librarians operate it. They were guided by Miss Welch. Any of the members will tell you it proved to be both educational and interesting.

Early in the spring the club went to Stappenback's to watch the book binding process and found it very interesting.

Peter also found out that the Library Club has an annual picnic at the end of the school year. It is open to members and anyone else who is interested in joining the staff next year.

Peter hopes that everyone understands the workings of the library and will help to make the club a success in the years to come.

Honor Society . . .

Peter the Pioneer was feeling sharp one day so he decided to join the ranks of the honor students of U. High.

Five percent of the junior class and 15 percent of the senior class are taken into the Walter Dill Scott Chapter of the National Honor Society every spring and fall, respectively. Those qualified for membership must be in the upper third of their class and be voted on by faculty and classmates.

Harlan Peithman, Dick Holmes, Marilyn Hoyt, and Lois Reed, the four seniors taken in during their junior year initiated six seniors into the society last November. Those seniors were Joan Tate, Frances Walker, Duane Dossett, Lee Miller, Bill Jennings, and Wally Brandt.

Officers for the first semester were Harlan

Peithman, President; Dick Holmes, Vice-president; Marilyn Hoyt, Secretary; and Lois Reed, Treasurer.

Officers for the second semester chosen from among the six new members were Joan Tate, President; Bill Jennings, Vice-President; Frances Walker, Secretary; and Wally Brandt, Treasurer.

Dave Gipson, Bruce Johnston, and Martha Ten Eyck were taken into the society this spring from the junior class.

The group provided an assembly program patterned after the radio show "CBS Is Here," showing how Congress works in action.

The annual joint meeting with the Normal High chapter was held at U. High this year. A pot-luck dinner was served and the two societies exchanged ideas.

Publicity Committee

Peter the Pioneer got his paint brush and poster material out the day he helped out the school Publicity Committee. The group is composed of Marge Foster and Ann Phillips from the Art class, Betsy Gottschalk from Student Council and Pat Johnson from the student body at large.

Any organization or class who want publicity about an oncoming all-school or closed party or any activity going on can come to this committee and get it done for them. They can save time and help other clubs with their work. The Publicity Committee was organized three years ago and has actively functioned although many students don't know of its existence.

Standing—M. Foster, A. Phillips, P. Johnson.

Peter the Pioneer suddenly became very patriotic after one Monday afternoon meeting with the Junior Red Cross.

Peter helped the president Harriet Cleveland; vice-president Dorothy Galvin; and secretary-treas., Joann Jennings; Miss Alexander, the sponsor; and members write letters overseas and fill scrapbooks to be sent to other boys and girls in foreign countries.

Every holiday finds the members decorating napkins and tray covers to be sent to Veterans hospitals throughout Illinois. Every Christmas a special drive to fill boxes for needy boys and girls overseas is sponsored by this organization.

Mathematics Club . . .

Back Row—W. Schultz, B. Jennings, H. Peithman, G. Schroeder, L. Miller, D. Hunt, K. Cluts, J. Fairbanks, D. Cortright, Miss Norskog.

Front Row—M. Moore, D. Dossett, R. Swayne, D. Holmes, J. Jennings, B. Baldwin, S. Goldmann, K. Fry.

This year Peter found that a new club had been started here at U. High. It is called the Mathematics Club. Miss Edna Norskog, a teacher new this year at our school, was the sponsor. With her able leadership and supervision their club came a long way. The club, Peter found by attending one of its meetings, consisted of twenty five chartered members. Meetings were held every second and fourth Tuesday afternoon at 3:00 in North Hall, room 203. This year's officers were Bill Jennings, president; Steffi Goldmann, vice-president; Duanne Dossett, treasurer, and Alice Mills, secretary; Dick Doud was chosen program chairman. Anyone who is interested in Mathematics regardless whether he is taking any Math course is eligible for membership in the club.

Peter was, as many were, curious about what was done in the club meetings. He found that there were many things going around such as that the Math club does problems in its meetings and that it is just like another class; but that is not correct. In their meetings they learned interesting facts and tricks with numbers. Do you know why there are 30 days in some months and 31 in others—can you operate a slide rule—which would you rather use, an adding machine or an abacus??? All of these interesting facts and many others were learned by the members of the Math club. The different student teachers gave talks on famous mathematicians while students who were willing explained tricks with numbers. Also they learned a very interesting card game where the mathematician has an advantage over the gambler.

At Christmas time the members of Math club enjoyed a Xmas party held at the home of Cedric Cooke. Games were played and refreshments were served. The club also had a picnic planned for their closing event of the year.

At one of their meetings Miss Norskog had ordered some films explaining the operation of a slide rule, and these were shown to the great interest of Peter and the other members.

Chess Club . .

Peter the Pioneer was in an aristocratic mood the afternoon he joined the wise chess players of the school. He found that any student in U. High who is interested in learning or could already play chess is welcome to this organization. The group meets every Wednesday afternoon for a chess session. The officers of the organization are: Don Turner, president; Oren Schaab, vice-president; and Bob Bleavins, secretary-treasurer. The members organize into teams and hold tournament games. Peter is speaking for all the members when he says that chess can be as exciting as a 90-yard touchdown in the toughest football game of the season.

They have several tournaments each year. Peter was very surprised to learn that the members of the Chess Club consists not only of boys but also of girls. This makes the competition even stronger. The girls of the club have a tournament among themselves and the same for the boys. The winners of these two tournaments play each other. Plans are now in progress to have matches among the city schools.

The purpose of the Chess Club is mainly to interest more people in chess and to make it a better game for those who like to play this "game of the mind." Peter learned that the U. High Chess Club meets on every other Wednesday after school in T-109. Their sponsor is Mr. William Faellaci, an I.S.N.U. student. Peter was happy to learn that there's no membership fee. Any money that the club needs is given to us by the Apportionment Board. This year the club bought three new chess sets.

Back Row—Mr. Faellaci, D. Dunnuck, D. Turner, B. Whitehall, J. Fairbanks, B. Wachter, K. Cluts.

Industrial Arts Club . . .

J. Kerr, J. Metcalf, B. Nybakki, R. Goetsch, G. Schroeder, R. Getty, B. Kuss, O. Schaab, Mr. Hodge, W. Hilburn.

The Industrial Arts club, a new club formed this year, found in Peter a very interested member. He learned that they meet every Monday night from 6:45 to 9:00 p.m. The boys, Peter found, for all the members this year happen to be boys, are all very interested in what Mr. Hodge, their sponsor, can and does teach them about industrial arts work. The officers elected for this year were: Oren Schaab, president; Willard Hilburn, vice-president; and Roger Getty, treasurer. Some of the projects that the boys are doing and have done are racing jet racers, making useful articles of plastics and wood and making things of aluminum. As the apportionment board allowed this club no money this year the members collected dues, 50c a semester and used that for the material they needed for their work. Peter enjoyed the meeting he attended very much and hopes that next year the club will have even more members.

Junior Class Play . . .

Peter the Pioneer enjoyed his first thrill of opening night when he attended the junior class play in November. This active class chose to present "The Imaginary Invalid" by Moliere. The play was a comedy which takes place in the seventeenth century in Paris, France.

The story revolves around Argan, played by Bob Scott, who imagines he has every ailment there is to have. He thinks of his health to the extent that he plans to marry his daughter, Angelique, Marilyn Mecherle, to a dull young doctor, Bob Baldwin, so that he will always have a physician handy. Angelique's plans are quite the contrary to those of her father. She is in love with the young and handsome Cleante, Bruce Johnston. The delightful servant, Toinette, Donna Mae Geske, who has no sympathy for the invalid, and is the only one tricky enough to fool him and persuades him to test his family's love by playing dead. He finds that his daughter is the only one who loves him, and his sophisticated wife, Ann Phillips, is only interested in his money. The finale finds the invalid completely recovered, and Angelique happily married to Cleante.

Others in the cast were Ward Sinclair who portrayed Monsieur Fleurant, Argan's very dignified apothecary. Dick Doud, as Monsieur de Bonnefoi, scheme with Argan and Beline so his children will not be left any of his estate. Ray Swayne plays the part of Monsieur Diaforius, the proud father of Thomas.

Ted Smith was cast as Beralde, Argan's younger brother who was against his unthoughtful plan of the marriage of Angelique. He and Toinette plan together to help her. Pat Johnson was Lourison, Argan's younger daughter, who could get around Argan better than Angelique. She was a very sly little girl for her age. Eddie Tick gave his performance as Monsieur Pargon who was the physician trying to cure Argan of his imaginary illnesses.

Mrs. Grace Van den Heurk assisted by Joyce White and Rosemary Roeder, student directors, and an I.S.N.U. student teacher directed the play.

Back Row—M. Mecherle, E. Tick, A. Phillips.

Senior Class Play . . .

Standing—H. Peithman, D. Dossett, H. A. Dick, L. Miller, M. Minch, D. Hunt, T. Jordan, B. Bleavins, G. Howard.

Seated—M. Hougham, L. Reed, J. Tate, D. Blair, E. Nyberg, D. Turner, B. Jennings.

Peter had so much fun at the Junior Class Play that he made a return trip to the theater to see the Senior Class usher in their final activities with a three act comedy, "Odds on Tomorrow."

The setting of the play took place in a small, middle western university town. The comedy concerns college life, where Prof. Wilfred Nettleton has his bachelor quarters invaded when his niece and nephew, Nettleton and Gwendolyn Ferris, come to live with their uncle a year while their foreign correspondent father is spending a year in China.

Nettleton manages to cause a revolution in getting the university in an uproar before he has been there a week. He writes an editorial for the school paper criticising the teaching methods used. To add to the confusion and excitement a nation-wide hunt for the missing daughter of the "Copper King" terminated on the college campus.

The cast included Don Hunt as Prof. Wilfred

Nettleton; Bill Jennings as Nettleton Ferris; Elsa Roehm as Gwen Ferris; Helen A. Dick as Pamela Beckendorf; and Glenna Howard as Hester Brinkley.

Others in the cast were: Marcia Minch, Don Turner, Lee Miller, Harlan Peithman, Elsie Nyberg, Joan Tate, Marilyn Hougham, Lois Reed, Ted Jordan, Bob Bleavins, Dick Blair, and Duane Dossett.

Mary Huffington, Shirley Schroeder, Wally Brandt, Cliff Kuder, Clayton Merritt, Harriett Cleveland, Paul Brush, Dick Holmes, Gaylord Anderson, Ginnie Buckholz, Marilyn Hoyt, Barb Buckholz, Donna Thomson, Ruth Bloomfield, and Kay Teter were the other seniors who assisted on the committees.

Mrs. Grace Van den Heurk directed the production, assisted by Margery Foster, student director.

One bright spring day as Peter the Pioneer was walking through the campus, he heard some terrible squeaks and squawks coming from the Federal Building between Old Castle and Fell Hall. Being naturally curious Peter decided to investigate. The noises turned out to be the U. High band warming up before rehearsals.

Peter decided to stay and watch so he sat down in a chair with a music rack in front of it and waited. Pretty soon Mr. Kuntz (the band's capable director) stepped in front of the band and rapped his baton for attention. "This," said Mr. Kuntz, "is our last rehearsal before our assembly. Today we will have to get right down to business. First, get out the 'Thunder March.'" Mr. Kuntz raised his baton and the band began to play. The first thing Peter noticed was that not all the instruments of one kind played the same part. Upon closer investigation he found that each instrument had a first, second, third and sometimes fourth solo part.

Later a student teacher came up to Peter and asked him if he were a new student and what instrument he played. Peter explained that he was just a visitor and proceeded to ask questions about the band. He was told that last fall the band marched for football games and really did very well. The student teacher said that now the band had learned to march in step and that it really looked good in white skirts or trousers—navy blue jackets and hats with green and gold braid.

The student teacher also told that Peter that a few members of the band had gotten together and organized a pep band for the basketball games. Then, too, nearly all of the U. High band members participated in the Spring Festival held for high school students from Central Illinois on the ISNU campus. Now, the student teacher explained, the band was working on music for the assembly it was putting on in a few days.

Peter was not a judge of music, but after he listened to the band awhile, he decided that the U. High band really did sound very, very good.

Orchestra . . .

Fourth Row—Miss Hudak, D. McCormick, A. Phillips, R. Reed, B. Barber, Mr. Spector.

First Row—L. TenEyck, D. Oborn, J. White, S. Goldmann, B. Lickty, P. Kring.

The orchestra this year was under the able direction of Mr. Spector. Among other things they took part in the music assembly which was presented in April. Every other year orchestra members take part in the annual McLean County Music festival which is held here, but this year the band went instead. Orchestra is open to anyone who can or wishes to learn to play an instrument, and can be a great deal of fun.

Mixed Chorus . . .

Peter loaned his voice to the chorus one lovely, spring morning when he was in a singing mood. He found that he learned a lot about music in just that one hour of singing with the seventeen other students. After talking with the eight student teachers, Peter was told that the chorus sang in the McLean County Music Festival and presented the program for a PTA meeting.

Martha Ten Eyck plays the piano for the group.

Back Row—B. Griffith, A. Phillips, L. Miller, Mr. Peithman, W. Brandt, K. Cluts, G. Howard, J. Fissel.
Front Row—O. Ontis, M. Hoyt, N. Bennett, D. Swan, J. Rice, M. Mecherle, P. Johnson, S. Anderson, M. Shinneman.

Noon Hour Chorus . .

Peter added his versatile tenor, baritone, or bass to the mixed chorus meeting during the noon hour. Mr. Kuntz was the capable director and Esther Unzicker served as accompanist. Although noon hour chorus is a new idea, this year's chorus has participated in many activities. Early in the fall they gave a program over WJBC. At Christmas time the group sang for a special program which was presented at P.T.A. and assembly.

During the Holidays they had a lot of fun caroling, after which they returned to the home of Mr. Kuntz for refreshments. On April 3, noon hour chorus presented a very fine concert. They also sang in the annual McLean County music festival. Peter decided to join next year.

Back Row—K. Cluts, O. Cluts, J. Neff, B. Johnston, J. Mahan, B. Jennings, D. Turner, B. Bleavins, H. Peithman, E. Rolley, R. Ayers, B. Whitehall.

Girl's Chorus . . .

Peter the Pioneer discovered that there were many musical activities at U. High. Every 4th hour on Tuesday and Thursday he heard girls singing voices echoing through the school. Peter turned detective and soon found the cause. It was the regular practice of the Girls Chorus.

This year Peter sat in on the assembly program that was presented by the music department; the Christmas program; the McLean County Music Festival; the Spring Festival; and the Baccalaureate services that were held in the spring under the direction of Mr. Lowell Kuntz. The officers of the chorus are: Lois Reed, president; Martha TenEyck, vice president; and Alma Lou Powell, secretary.

Back Row—A. Deibel, P. Ealy, D. Sizemore, A. Powell, J. Nix, L. Shepard, J. Buff, S. Donahue, M. Schwartz.
Front Row—M. TenEyck, E. Nyberg, D. Peasley, J. Hannie, J. Reusser, E. Mathis, S. McVicar, B. Morrison.

Back Row—J. Phillips, W. Wheiting, M. Murray, K. Teter, A. Brush, K. Blakney, I. West, Mr. Kuntz.
Front Row—L. McMullin, J. Smith, J. Trunnel, H. Charles, J. Olsen, M. Hougham, L. Reed, B. Gottschalk, M. Schultz, M. Foster.

Octet . . .

Peter came to an all-school party in the fall and heard eight boys harmonizing on "Coney Island Baby." He liked them so well he inquired and found out they were the boys' Octet. Bruce Johnston, Harlan Peithman, Bill Jennings, Keith Cluts, Don Turner, Ted Jordan, Jim Neff, and Edmunds Rolley have formed one of U. High's newest vocal groups.

They first appeared at a joint all-school party at N.C.H.S. Since then they have entertained at many all-school parties. A few of their specialties are "Tell Me Why," "Mood Indigo," and "Daddy Get Your Baby Out of Jail."

J. Neff, H. Peithman, E. Rolley, D. Tirner, T. Jordan, B. Jennings, B. Johnston, K. Cluts.

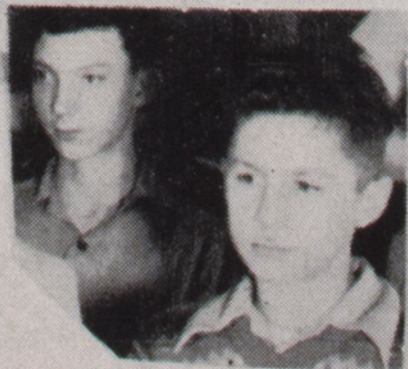

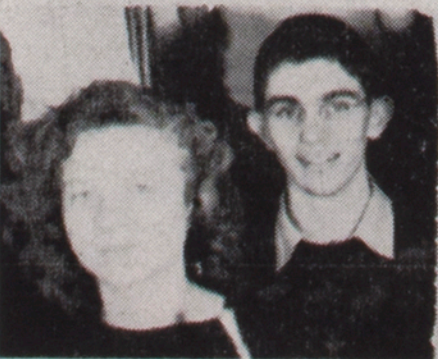

Sextet . . .

Peter stopped to see what the girls were doing in the way of music at U. High. He found out that a sextet had been added to the musical activities.

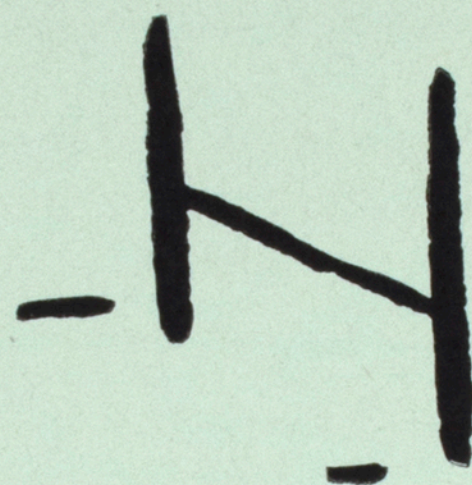

The sextet was formed this year under the direction of Mr. Lowell Kuntz. The members are: Marilyn Hougham, Marilyn Hoyt, Kay Teter, Lois Reed, Glenna Howard, and Margery Foster. Their first appearance was during the floor show of the senior sponsored all-school party. Their selection was "Dry Bones." The girls hoped to go to the Spring Festival and then on to the State this year. In future years to come this group should rise to be one of the leading musical organizations in University High School.

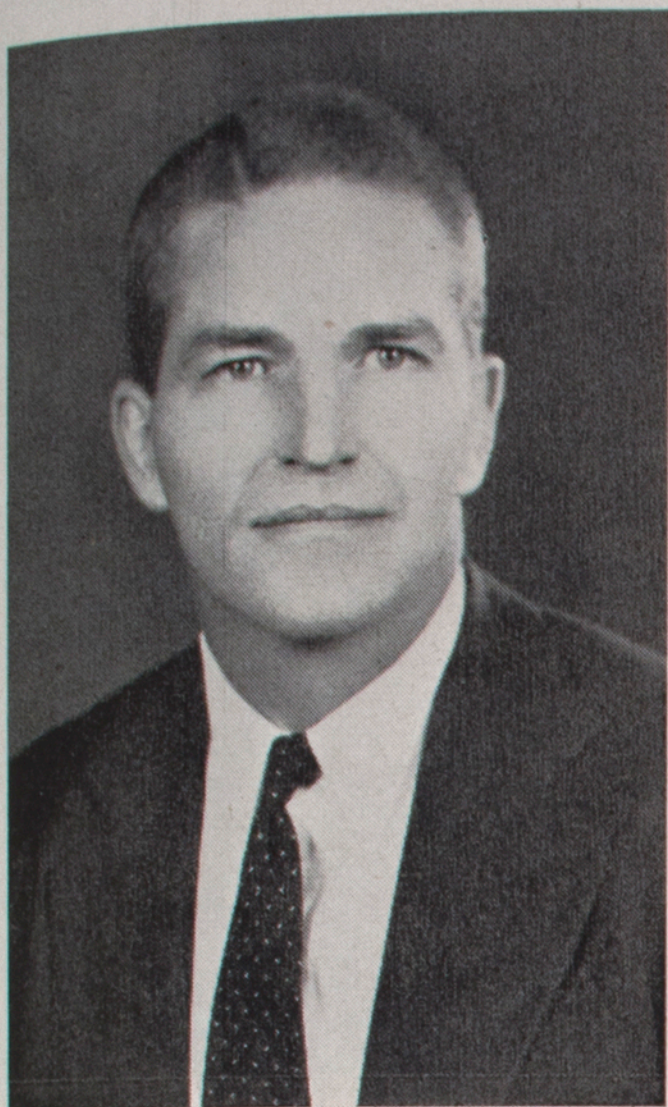

K. Teter, M. Hoyt, L. Reed, G. Howard, M. Foster, absent, M. Hougham.

Our Happy Hunting Grounds

Coaches . . .

Mr. Heldt

In his second year of coaching at U. High, Coach Harlan Farnsworth again proved his capability. He comes from Grant, Michigan, where he coached basketball and track in addition to teaching biology and chemistry. He coached Grant, Michigan High School to Newaygl Athletic Conference championships in both basketball and track during his two year stay there.

Mr. Farnsworth's first baseball team made a fine showing last year by winning 11 of 15 games. During the past fall he coached Fresh-Soph football, but had little success in the win department as they dropped 6 straight games. This was mainly due to inexperience at key positions.

He took over as head basketball coach this year and succeeded in winning 8 while losing 16. Many of the losses suffered were by five points or less and would have gone either way with a few breaks. He did an especially fine job of setting up a defense to stall strong Chenoa as the Pioneers lost by a mere 9 points in the regional tournament.

Coach Farnsworth is a fine coach; we appreciate this work, and want to wish him the best of luck in all his future coaching here at U. High.

U. High is deeply indebted to Mr. Carl Heldt who did such a masterful job of coaching U. High teams this year in the absence of Coach Burton O'Connor who took a year off to work on an advanced degree.

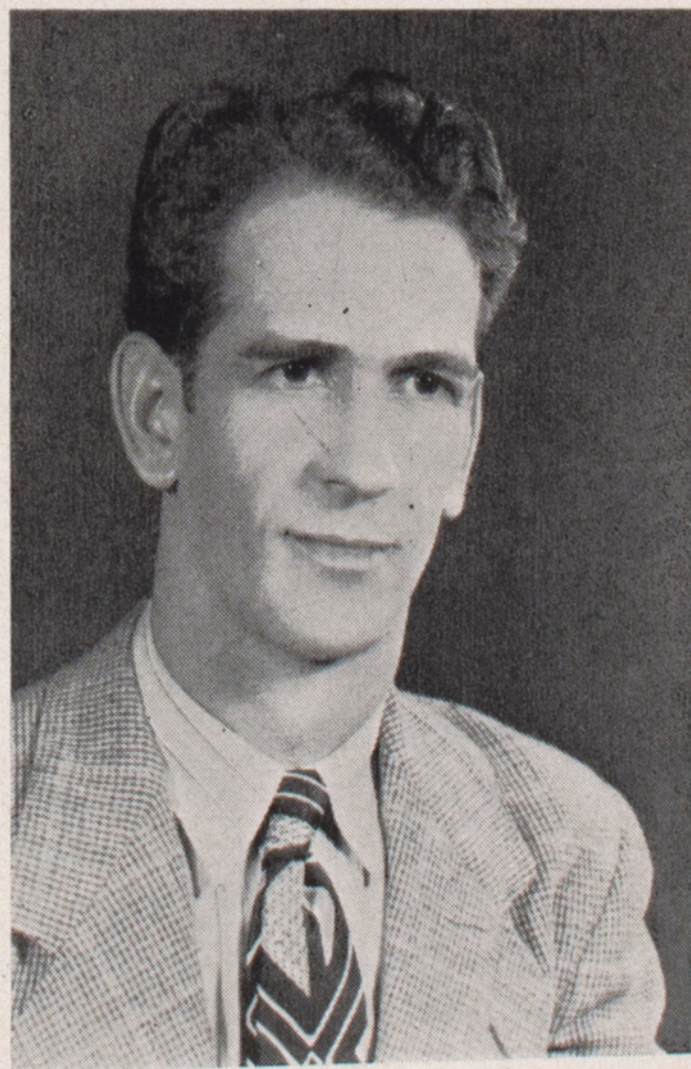

Coach Heldt was an All-Conference tackle at Purdue and captained their football squad in 1934. He also played two years of pro-football with the Brooklyn Dodgers of the NFL after graduation.

Before coming to U. High, Mr. Heldt coached high school teams and last year was freshman football and basketball coach at the University of Oregon. He also served four years with the Navy in the last war.

Coach Heldt's Pioneer football team after losing three straight, finished the season with five straight wins and a tie. They also captured the Corn Belt trophy for the third successive year.

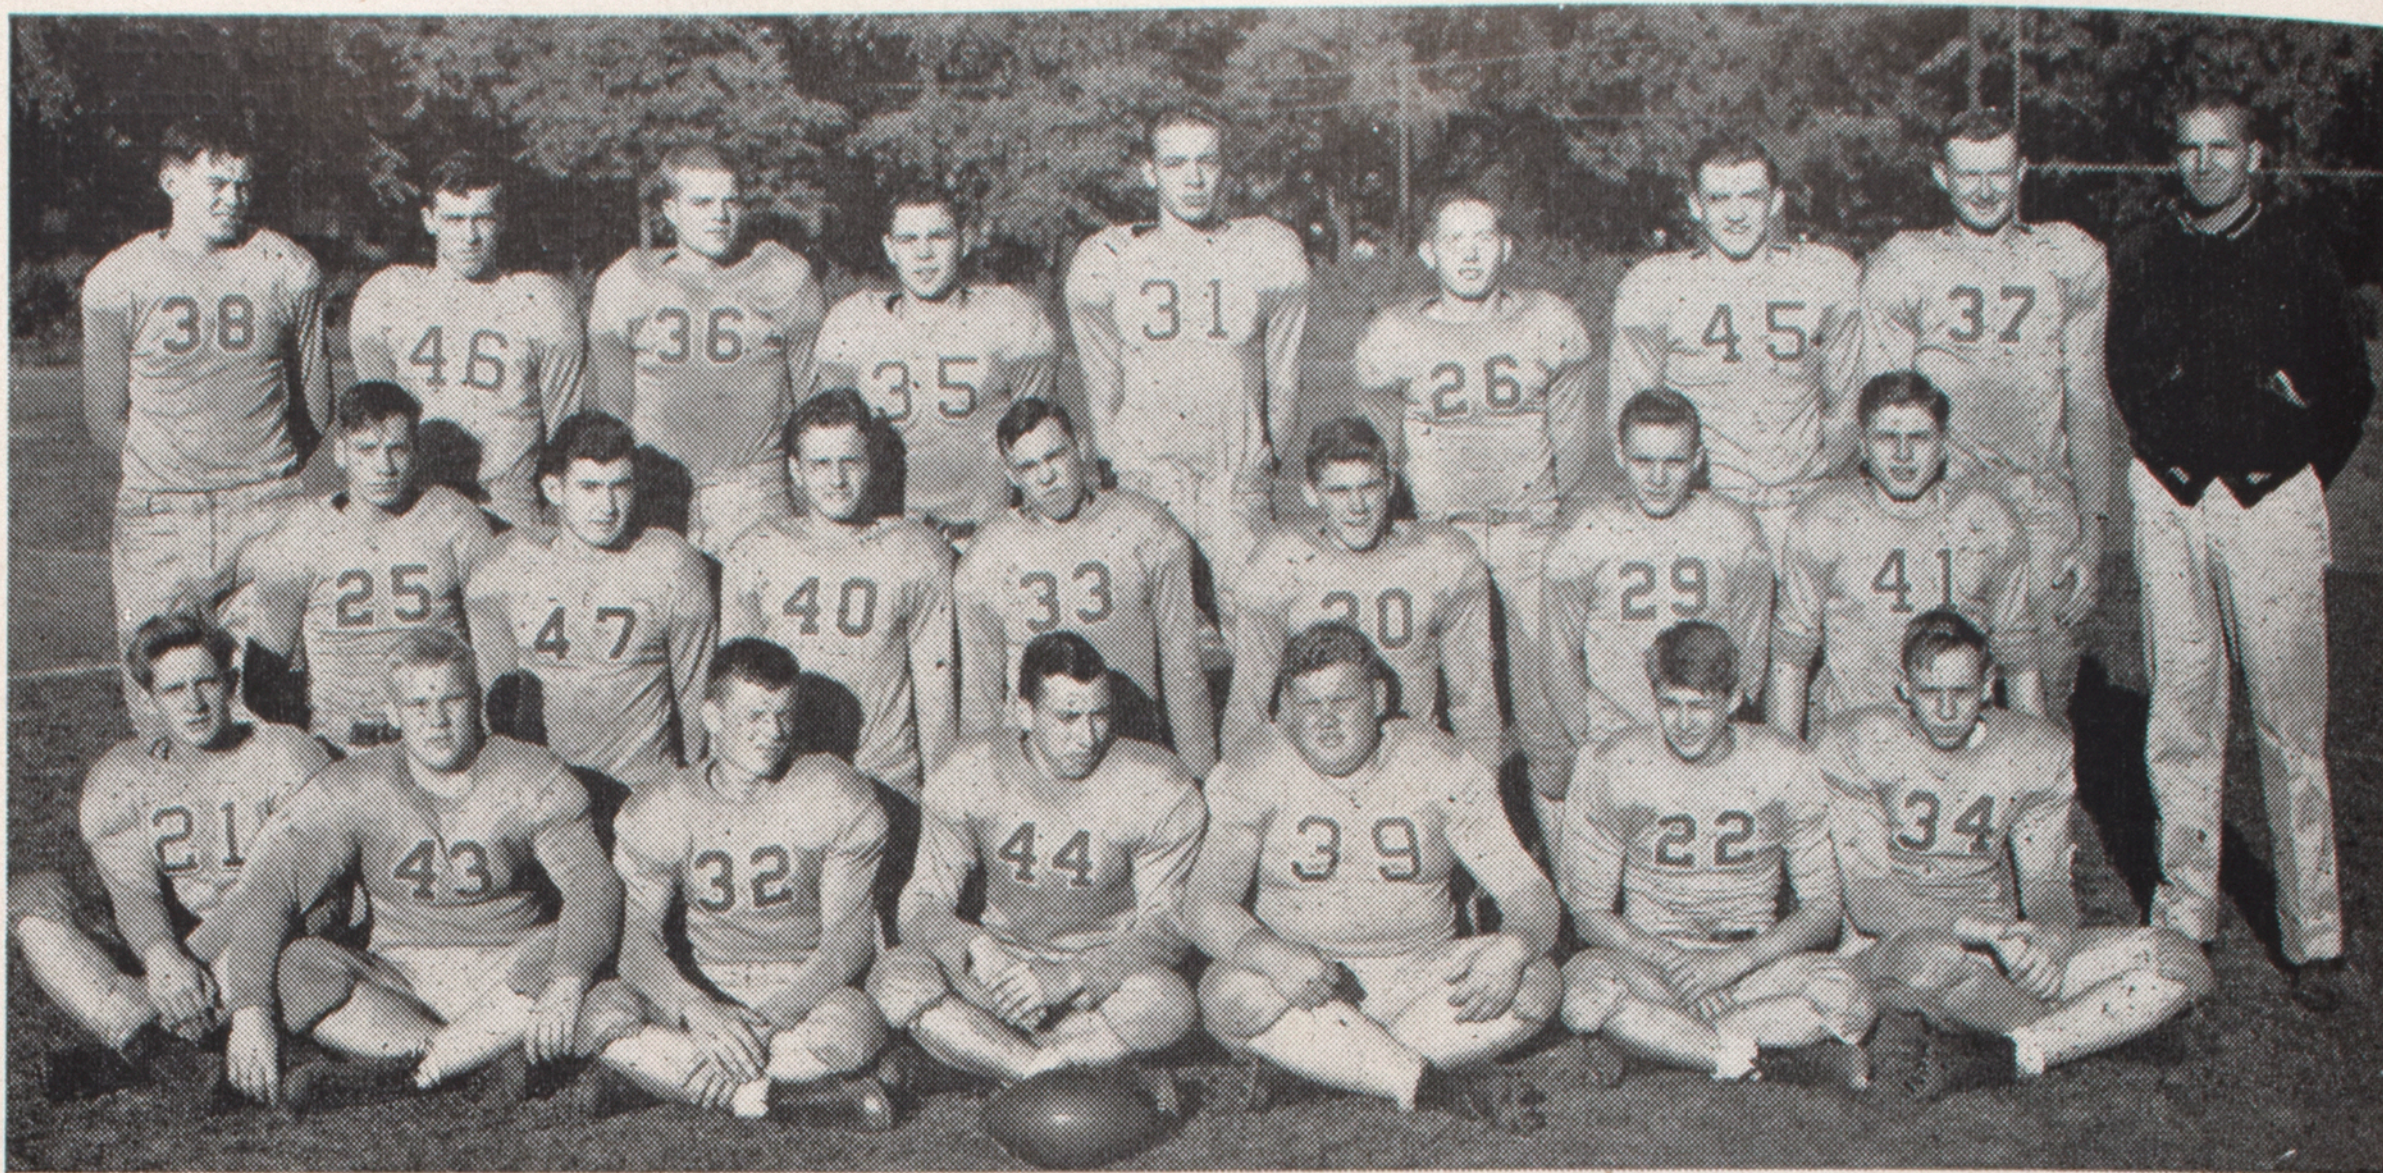

Next year Mr. Heldt moves over to ISNU as line coach and physical education teacher.

We, the students of U. High, in appreciation of Mr. Heldt's fine coaching of U. High teams this year, would like to wish him good luck in his new position.

Football Review . . .

U. High 0—Spring Valley 26

U. High, under their new coach, Carl Heldt, opened the season by losing to a strong Spring Valley team 26-0. The Green and Gold played without several first stringers and it might have been a different game had they been there. Paul Brush and Dick Blair turned in good games for the Pioneers.

U. High 12—Monticello 13

Monticello temporarily postponed U. High's thoughts of their first victory by turning on some second half power to tip the Pioneers 13 to 12. Bob Kadlec dashed 48 yards in the fourth quarter for a touchdown and with Bill Beebe led an 83 yard thrust in the second quarter with Beebe getting credit for the touchdown. The extra conversions were bad which partly accounts for the loss.

U. High 6—B.H.S. 12

In a penalty marked game the Raiders defeated the Pioneers 12 to 6. Kenny Miller and Tom Scott were thorns in the side of the Green and Gold all evening. Again Capt. Brush turned in an outstanding game for the Pioneers. Bill Beebe smashed over for the Pioneers' only touchdown in the final quarter. With a few breaks U. High could have upset the Purple Raiders.

U. High 25—Clinton 7

For their first win of the year the Pioneers upset a heavily favored Clinton "11," 25 to 7 in the homecoming game. Bill Beebe raced for three touchdowns while turning in a remarkable defensive game. Most of the reserves saw action in the McCormick Field tiff with Bob Kadlec and John East turning in outstanding performances.

U. High 13—Normal 7

The Green and Gold upset a slightly favored Normal "11" in this one. They were led by Bill Beebe who scored one TD on a ten yard run and Ray Swayne who made a quarterback sneak over from the six inch line. Corbett Humphrey, a 215 pound fullback, made a 45 yard jaunt for Normal's only score and a 13-7 U. High win.

U. High 12—Dwight 0

Knocking Dwight from the undefeated ranks the Pioneers whitewashed their opponents 12 to 0. Bobby Kadlec proved to be the main difference between the teams as he scored both touchdowns for the Pioneers in the first half, one coming on a 49 yard end run. The game ended with Dwight deep in U. High territory.

U. High 14—Pontiac 7

U. High took a big step toward its third successive Corn Belt championship by defeating the previously undefeated Indians 14-7. A bad pass from center by Pontiac netted the first Pioneer touchdown when Gaddy fell on it in the end zone. Pitcher took a pass and raced 70 yards to score for Pontiac in the second quarter. Beebe scored the winning touchdown for U. High while Kadlec added both extra points on line plunges. Pontiac netted only 14 yards by rushing.

U. High 38—Fairbury 6

U. High scored five of its six touchdowns on plays ranging from 30 to 80 yards as they tromped Fairbury 38 to 6 to clinch a tie for first place in the Corn Belt. Bill Beebe, who played a sensational game, scored on runs of 75 yards and 80 yards in the night tilt at Fairbury. The Tartars made a game of it only for the first half as they were only losing 13-0 at halftime.

U. High 0—Trinity 0

In a muddy game played at McCormick Field the Pioneers managed to gain a scoreless tie from a stubborn Trinity eleven to win their third consecutive conference championship. Capt. Paul Brush, playing his last game for the Green and Gold, turned in a remarkable defensive game. A Trinity touchdown by Bonny was nullified by a penalty. Bonny and Kraft were on the Pioneers much of the time. Both teams played good games.

U. High's underclassmen had a disastrous time this year due to inexperience at key positions. The varsity was weak in reserves this year so some of the top prospects for the fresh-soph team had to be utilized by the varsity.

The team was weakest at the backfield and end positions. The middle of the Pioneer line was strongest as guards Steve McCormick and Richard Wachter and tackle Bob Gaddy stamped themselves as good prospects for next year's varsity team by turning in well played games all season.

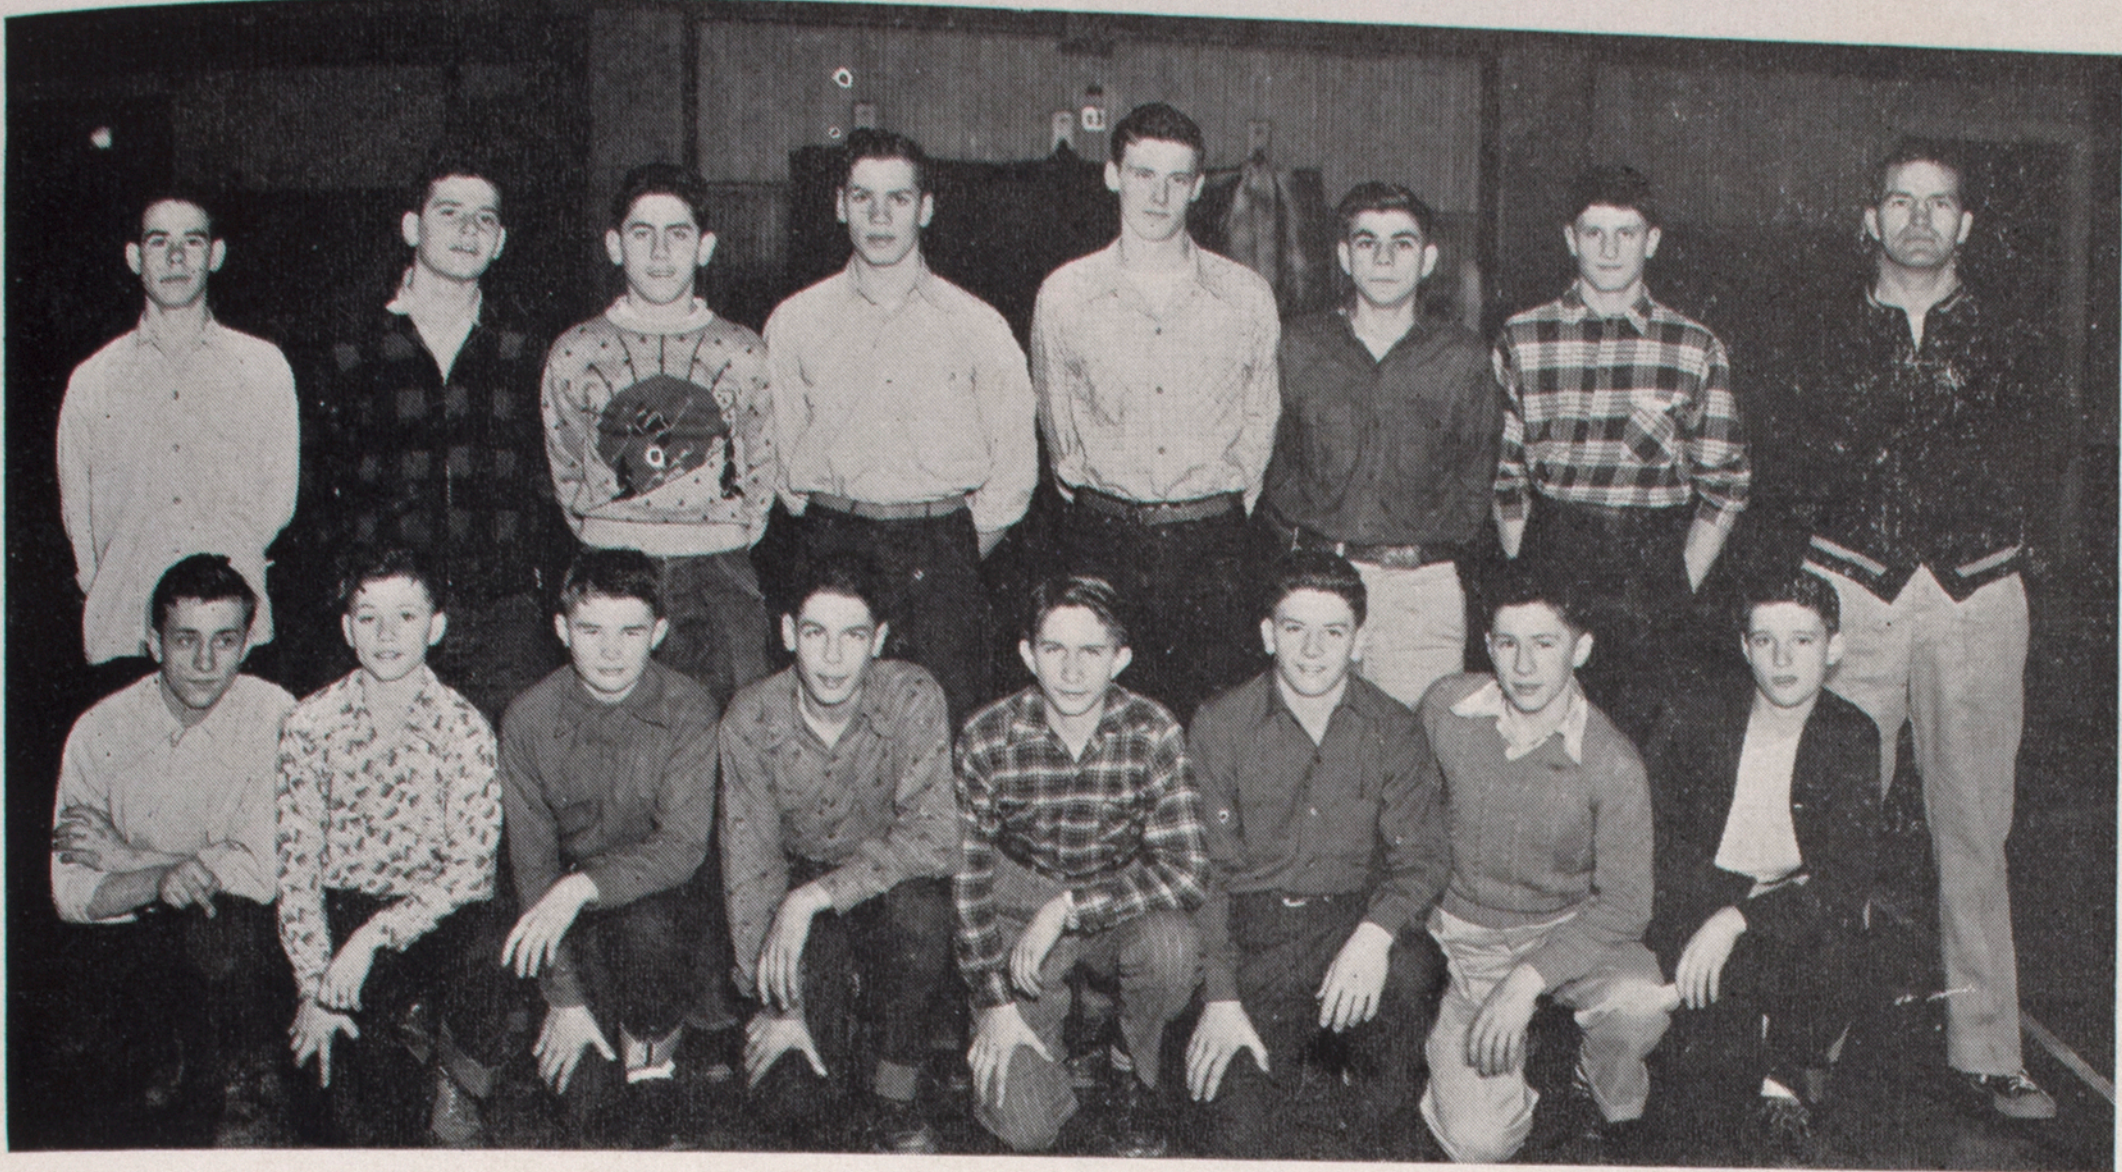

Kenny Burnett was the top backfield performer and with a little more help from some of the others could have helped to win some of the games that were lost by close margins.

All in all Coach Farnsworth did the best with what material he had and with a few more experienced players he would have had a better season.

This year's fresh-soph basketball team, like the football team, had a "rough" year as far as winning was concerned. They won six while dropping eighteen.

The boys who started most of the games were "Mike" Michalski, Steve McCormick and Sidney Jennings at forwards; Roy Robinson or Joe Green at center; and the two Andersons, John and Glen, at guards. They were coached by Mr. Carl Heldt.

The high points of the season were their two wins over Gibson City, one over Pontiac and a one point victory in a thriller over Springfield Lamphier.

Varsity Basketball . . .

Led by Capt. Ted Jordan the Pioneer's basketball squad enjoyed an average season winning eight and losing sixteen. In the absence of Burton O'Connor, Coach Harlan Farnsworth continued the rebuilding that O'Connor had started a year before. Although there were many losses, it wasn't because every boy on the team didn't try to make it a winning team. Many of the losses were by less than five points and could have gone either way with a few breaks.

One of the interesting facts to note about this year's team is that the opposition averaged only four points more than did the Pioneers.

Capt. Ted Jordan led the Pioneers in scoring with 274 points. We annexed the Corn Belt scoring crown with a total of 96 points and were second in the Intercity scoring race with 77 points.

Probably one of the better games the Pioneers played this year was in the Lexington Regional against a strong Chenoa team.

Prospects are pretty good for next year since the only regular lost will be Ted Jordan and reserve center Jack Steigelmeier.

The 1948 edition of U. High baseball started off with a bang by winning their first seven games in a row. They eventually ended the season with a record of eleven wins and four losses.

Two of the losses were dealt by a tough Clinton "9." The 8-6 loss inflicted on us by El Paso was due to the lack of starting pitchers. Charles Lawskowski was the top Pioneer moundsman winning five games with only one loss. Ray Swayne and Don Campbell each were credited with three wins and a single defeat. The top performance of the year was Lawskowski's one hitter against Normal in which Spang beat out an infield roller to Beebe.

Three regularly scheduled games with Bloomington were rained out last year and the first district game ended in a 2-2 tie because of rain. In the reply of the rained out tie game U. High ran into too much Bill Butler as he threw a no-hitter at them and knocked them out of the district to win a close score of 2-1.

The Pioneers lost such top men as Charles Lawskowski, Bill Dorn, Don Campbell, Jack Donahue and Bert O'Connell off last year's team. They do have good prospects for another fine season this year since such returning lettermen as Ray Swayne, Bill Beebe, John Stevens, Bob Kadlec, Paul Brush and Dave Gipson are back to lead this year's team.

District Tournament (Bloomington)

Track and Field . . .

The Pioneer tracksters opened their season by beating a surprisingly weak Gridley team 79-39. In the Normal Relays which Decatur and Pekin dominated, U. High failed to get a point. In their next dual meet with Bloomington they were edged out 63-55 when they lost the final event, the 880 yd. relay.

In the District Meet held at Urbana the Pi-oneers didn't place anyone in the State Meet largely because of inexperience.

In the Intercity Meet held under the lights at Normal in a light rain, Bloomington took first with 65 1/2 points, Normal was second with a total of 49 3-10 points and U. High finished third with 33 9-10.

Pontiac with 95 1/2 points was again an easy winner in the Corn Belt Meet which was also held at Normal under the arcs. Normal took second with 51 1/2 to U. High's 37 1/2. Carol Mowers and John Gaddy both showed much improvement in the hurdles last year, and with a fine fresh-soph relay team moving up to the varsity, this year's Pioneer track team should be greatly improved. Among the notable losses off last year's team are Howard Schwarz, Charles Lawskowski, Bill Rolley and John MacAnelly who has moved to Des Moines, Iowa.

Back Row—Mr. O'Connor, H. Brayfield, D. Houser, R. Mowers, E. Rolley, J. Barnes, C. Las-kowski, J. Gaddy, B. Dorn, J. MacAnelly, B. Rolley.

Front Row—B. Scott, B. Wachter, B. Moore, C. Wilburn, G. Fearheiley, B. McKinley, D. Turner, B. Jennings, T. Smith, E. Hunter, L. Thomson, L. Nordine.

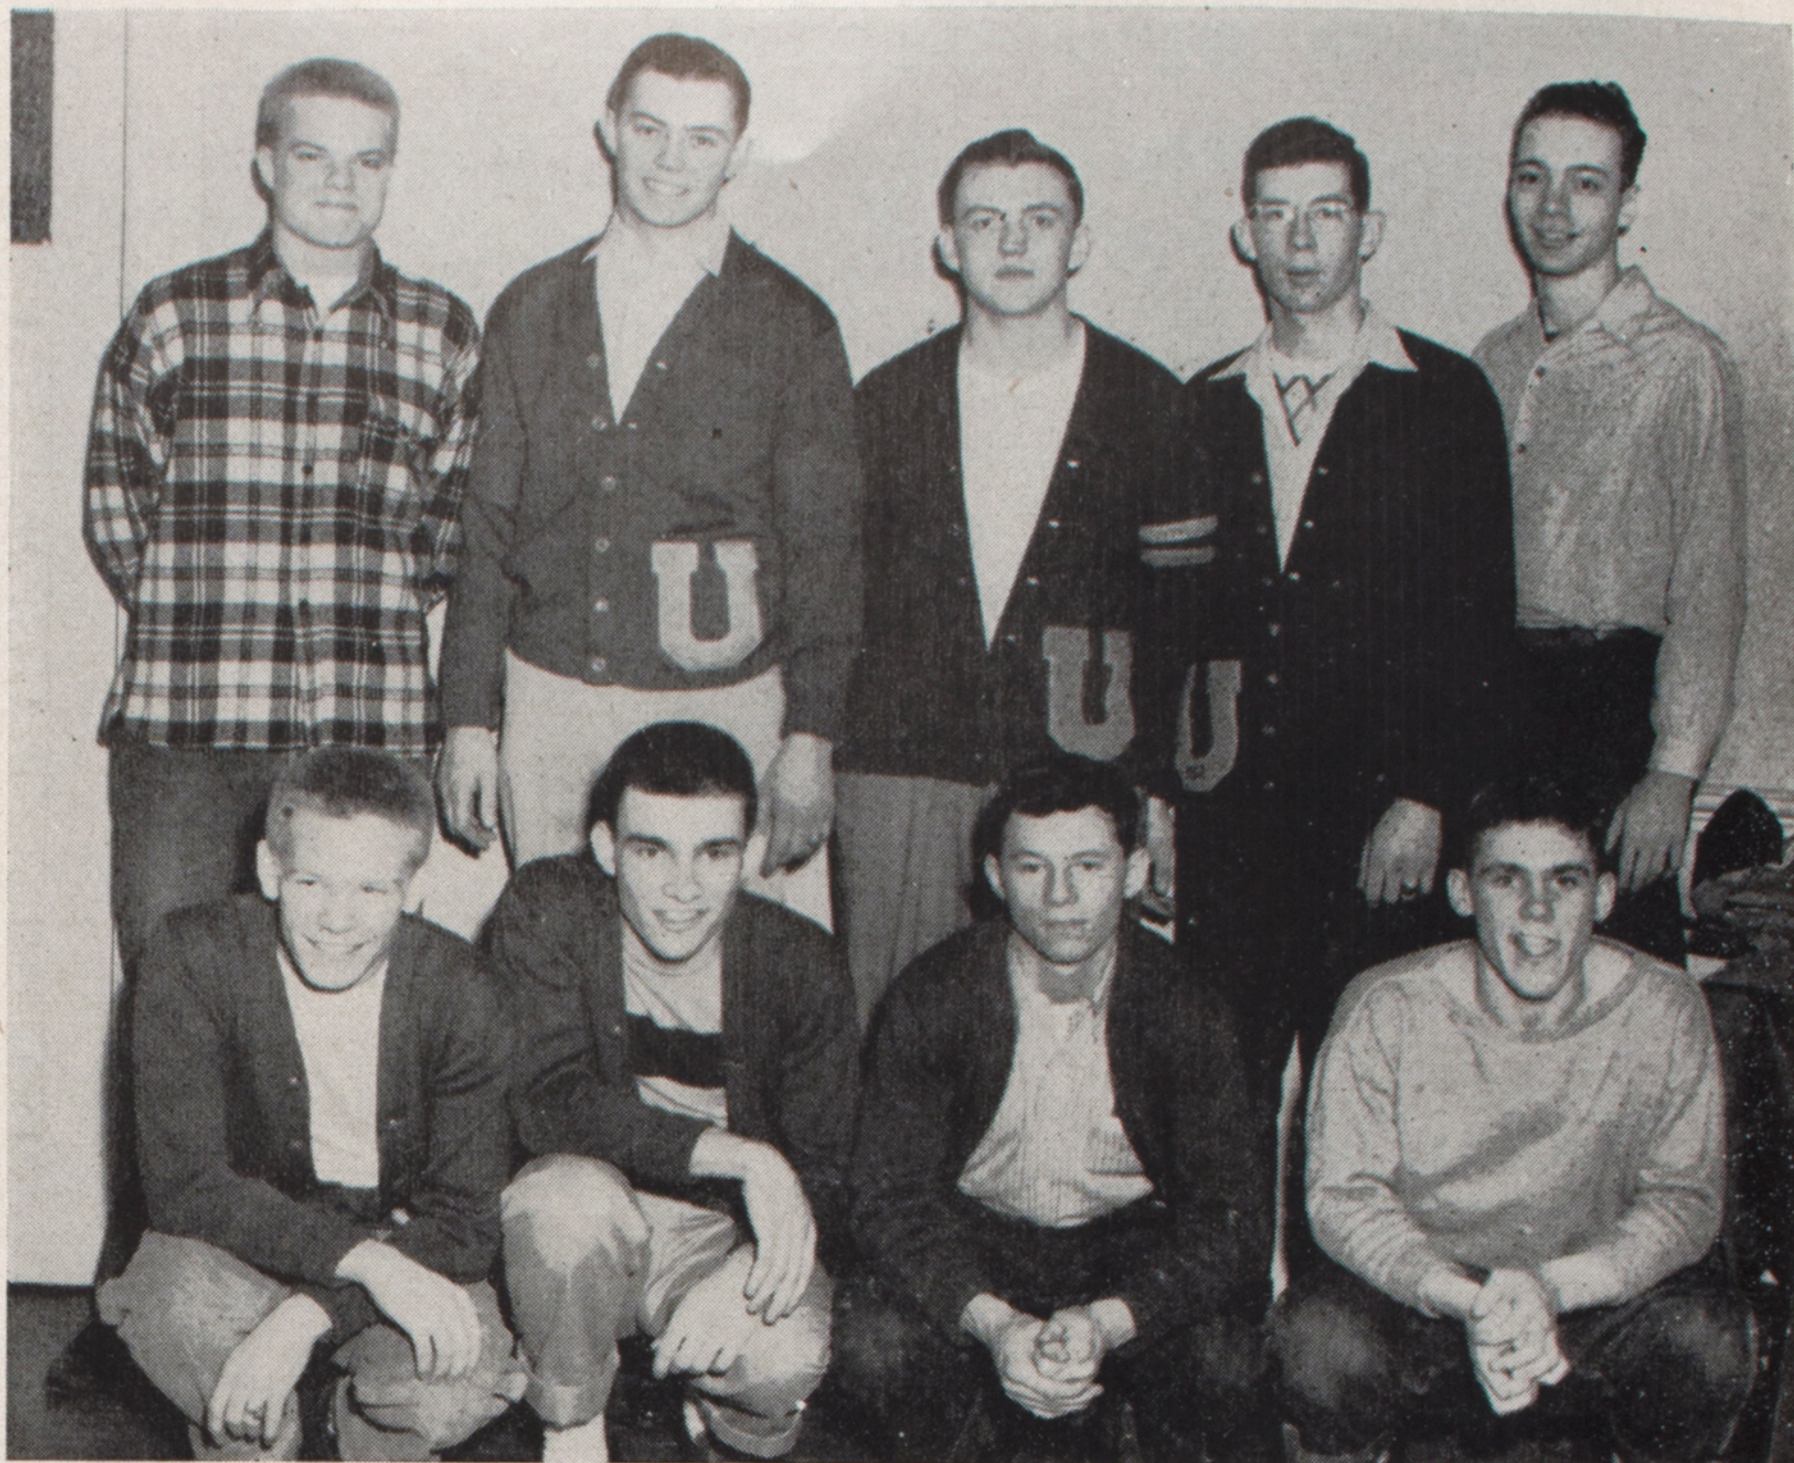

U. Club . .

This year for the first time in two years the U. Club was active. Last year the lettermen's club was inactive and had no meetings.

Under the sponsorship of Coach Carl Heldt, the U. Club was reorganized and officers were elected. These included Ted Jordan, president; Paul Brush, vice-president; Dick Blair, secretary.

In February the U. Club sponsored an all-school party in which members of the club as well as the faculty put on a floorshow which was highlighted by a chorus line.

As each boy wins a letter, he automatically becomes a member of the organization. A record book of all letter winners in the past years has been kept and is now being brought up to date.

Back Row—J. East, J. Barnes, D. Blair, K. Cluts, E. Rolley.

Front Row—P. Brush, R. Swayne, W. Schultz, B. Scott.

G. A. A. . .

Peter the Pioneer felt a little out of place when he found himself playing center on one of the girls' basketball teams during a GAA meeting. But Peter wanted to take a complete tour of U. High and visit all the organizations, so a visit to GAA was just part of the job.

He found that the girls also take part in volley ball, table tennis, hikes and skating parties during their regular Tuesday and Friday meetings.

The U. High Girls' Athletic Association played hostess to the other GAA's in the local high schools at a play day. They also attended one at Gibson City for all the high school GAA's in Central Illinois. A club business meeting is held the first Tuesday of every month conducted by the officers, Dorthy Galvin, president; Pat Ely, vice-president; and Marilyn Martens, secretary-treasurer. Dr. Miriam Gray is the GAA sponsor.

Cheerleaders . . .

Peter the Pioneer agreed there was nothing quite so exciting as the modern day varsity football and basketball games, and he also agreed that half the thrill of the game was the wild cheering section. We've had some A-Number One cheer leaders to build up our school spirit at games this year, including the faithful threesome, Lois Reed, Mernie Hougham and Marilyn Nelson. A newcomer to the group this season was peppy Mary Anne Hans. Bill Truitt added the male interest to the group. With the help of these vivacious leaders, Peter and all the rest of us had a velling good time at all our games.

Homecoming . . .

Homecoming in the '49 Style

Peter the Pioneer continues his journey. The date is October first and this of course is Homecoming. The first thing on the program was the "Pep Session." This was led by the cheerleaders, Lois Reed, Mernie Hougham, Mary Anne Hans, Marilyn Nelson, Bill Truitt, and last but not least J. R. Fenton. This got everyone very excited about the game which was to follow soon after.

Peter and his friends went over to McCormick field to see the Homecoming game, with Clinton. Peter got in his seat and watched the team practice when he heard some noise. Oh, yes, we forgot to mention that the "Band" under the direction of Mr. Kuntz was going to play. So the game started. The first half ended 13 to 0, in favor of U. High. The band performed again and the queen was driven around the field—the queen being Lois Reed with Marilyn Hoyt and Elsa Roehm as her royal attendants. After all this the game finally got started again. When the last half ended the Pioneers come out with another victory, for they had won 25 to 0.

After the game was over, the doughnut and cider reception for the Alumni began. This is an annual affair at Homecoming, and is an excellent way for everybody to see the kids they don't see ordinarily.

The next and last thing is the Homecoming Dance, where the crowning of the queen takes place. Larry Lonnie's orchestra played while the couples danced. At 10:30 Lois Reed was crowned queen and Carol "Red" Mowers, king. Their attendants were Jim Seyster and Elsa Roehm, Ted Jordan and Marilyn Hoyt.

The committees were headed by the following people:

Miscellaneous . . .

Hi kids!
To those among us
Who can a joke appreciate
We, the staff, this department
Do fondly dedicate.

* * * * *

As traditional as a Clarion itself, we've been wondering—What would U. High be without:
Duane Dossett's suspenders?
Loren Thomson's friendly greetings?
The girls and their knitting?
Jack Stern's red corduroy pants?
Don Turner's interest in NCHS?
The Ko-Ko shop?
Martha Ten Eyck and her music?
J. R. Fenton's cheerleading?
Jack Hurless' loud mouth?
Helen Jefferson, Polly Powell, Donna Thomson, and Lou Ann Unzicker's interest in BHS? (lack of space limits this list!)
Marilyn McVicar's interest in baseball?
Mary Ann's Han's?
Co-ed gym classes?
The teams? (!)
The student teachers?

* * * * *

Junior: I'm studying hard to get ahead!
Senior: Heaven only knows you need one!

Now that you think about it, did you ever see:
"Little Beef" without Lorna?
The library without noise?
"Candy" Canerdy without a big grin?
John Gaddy without Marilyn Mecherle?
Somebody without a joke?
History without tests?
Dave Gipson without an "A"?
Pat Orr without a good debate?
A junior without a money-making scheme?

We were looking through the newspaper the other night and saw some unusual advertisements. They were:

Wanted: Higher history grades by Miss Alexander.
Found: A sophomore boy, Johnny, by a sophomore girl, Mary Ellen.
For sale: History notes compiled by Dave Gipson and John East. (worth a fortune, we'd say!)
Job Opening: Clarion editor's job left vacant by Marge Foster.

If there should be another flood
To this book I'd fly
For if all this world were again submerged
This book would still be dry.
